Austin Details Art + Photo hosts an Opening Reception for The Two Worlds of Darvin Jones on May 12, 2011 from 6-9pm

Austin artist and musician Darvin Jones shows the two worlds he inhabits in his artistic life on large canvases, works on aluminum and limited-edition prints.

Opening Reception: Thursday, May 12, 6-9 pm (On exhibit through July 1)

Opening with: I Art Congress, a downtown second Thursdays art walk series.

Art Talk on Series & Process: Saturday, June 11, 2 pm

Darvin Jones inhabits two worlds.

Art. Music. Intermingled, intertwined, impossible to create one without the other for Darvin Jones. Nomenclature, his new work on exhibit at Austin Details Art + Photo from May 12-July 1, brings his two worlds together to give definition and meaning to the intersections of art and music.

To merge two such very opposite worlds, Jones relies upon the line, long used by artists and musicians for the symbols of their worlds: imagery, composition, notation and language. How we interpret these symbols helps us find meaning and understanding in the world at large.

For Jones, combining imagery with line has become a new way to make his paintings reflect the nature of his music—to connect his two worlds.

Darvin Jones is an artist who allows no boundaries for himself when creating art and making music. His latest series of paintings, Nomenclature, evokes a sense of wonder and a wide array of emotions from the viewer, with symbolic imagery that reflects the nature of music and art.
